P. H. PRICE,
E. C. ASBELL,
Townville, S. C.

SIX AND TWENTY Pendleton, August 6.—Most of our farmers have completed the task of planting their crops for this season and are sitting up in the shade enjoying themselves eating watermelon and peaches.
Our series of meetings began at this place Sunday, August 2nd and is to extend through the week until Sunday, August 9.
It is announced that there is to be a singing school to start at this place August 17 under the supervision of Prof. Milford.
W. C. Pepper of Anderson spent last Thursday night with S. I. Richey.
Lee Elrod, Jr., of Pelzer was visiting our section last Sunday.
Six and Twenty and Pendleton ball teams are to cross bats on the local diamond next Saturday afternoon.
Come out, everybody, and root for the local.
The party that has returned from the fishing trip upon Keowee reports a nice time.
Crops have much improved since the recent rains.
Mr. Paul Mahaffey, who has been spending the past week at Pelzer, returned to his home Saturday.
Mr. Walter Mailikis, and mother made a business trip to Sandy Springs last Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McAllister of Williamston were visiting the latter's parents last Saturday and Sunday.
The greatest topic in our section is politics. If you see two persons meet-who haven't seen one another in ever so long, they may take time enough to shake hands, but they haven't time to ask how each other is getting along until after they discuss politics or ask "Who's your man for senate?" I don't hear names of candidates for office mentioned but please and Smith.

Governor Blease must be an awful terror in the political arena. Two years ago you heard nothing talked in politics but Blease and Jones. We have more offices in this state now.
Everybody may say whatever they please.
I am going to vote for Cole L. Blier.
Best wishes to the Daily Intelligencer.

UNCLE DAVE'S LETTER.

How to Kill a Church.

The church as a whole is held in high esteem by all men. But the individual constituency is often doubted.
This is brought about by the failure of the members to comprehend that each of them advertise the whole.
Carelessness on the part of christian people is the church's worst foe today. It is my purpose to illumine the path that many tread. There are three ways to quench fire.

First, smother it. I can but illu-trate this by a christian scene of my boyhood. The old church was having its Christmas cheer (or tree). It was packed. The coming of Santa with his cotton covered coat and great pack had brought the climax to the joyous hour. Suddenly Santa's cap touched a tiny taper and a terrible tragedy started. He stood a living fire. Men lost their senses. Women screamed and fought. Costly windows were crushed, doors were swept from their hinges and a score of legs and arms were broken.

Only one man in that vast throng had presence of mind enough to act.
He caught up overcoats and robes, and finally succeeded in wrapping them about poor Santa until the cruel flames had been smothered. But not fumes into the lungs of our splendid Sunday school superintendent, who was our Santa that night.

How smother a church? Put it on a purely commercial footing. Wrap the cloak of worldliness about it.
Hedge in the pastor with instructions to wink at the more common sinful practices. Tell him that you want no poor people in the pews. Agree with the worldlying who tells you that the lodges are far superior to the church. Wipe out all dividing lines between worldliness and churchliness.

Let church folks do everything that secular folks do, and let the preacher count them. I think that you can easily extinguish the warmth and glow that church has had.
Second, let the fire burn out. Western prairie men employ this method.
When great flames threaten to sweep the county or state, they rush forth with teams and plows and surround the conflagration. The fires slowly eat themselves to death.

To let the church fires burn out, don't add fuel to them. Stay away from the Sunday school, the prayer hour, the preaching programme. Let any little trifles keep you away. Stay home an entertained worldly company.
(That leaves a fine impression of your church valuation upon your unsaved friends.) Let the clouds or the heat or the cold be your excuse. May and October are about the only perfect months for church-going. You stay away the other ten. If your church fires are low, see if you haven't plowed deep furrows of indifference, neglect and foolish faith about it.

Thirdly, throw cold water upon the fire. This last is the most common method of quenching the fire. Water is fire's master, yet together they do make a powerful combination.

How can I throw cold water upon the church?

If you go regularly, never ask any one to go with you. Act as though you were ashamed. I know a Sunday school superintendent who has passed my home every Sunday for the past ten years and has never invited me to his Sunday school or church.
Always come to church late. Never come enthusiastically. Always take a back seat. Don't look pleasant; remember you are in church. Remember, you will have to sit here one hour, and the air must be perfect.

Last week you sat in a dead stuffy show house for three hours and paid for the privilege and never noticed the rotten air. Of course the preacher is not perfect, so go after him. His life is pure, his heart warm and he comes burdened with the heartaches of the sick, the poor, the aged. Yes, so after the preacher. Tell him how dead the church is. (Why not tell him how long you have been dead?) Never thank him for the hours he has spent pouring over his pages. He must come now every service. When the service is over, remember the church is no place to be friendly.
Don't shake hands with any one.
Rush out as you would at the theatre.
One would think the building was on fire by the way our churches empty these days. On the way home don't let any one suspect that you have been at church. Try not to pay any attention to the church after you leave it. Don't refer to it at all week.
Never admit that it has any claim upon your time, thought, talent, prayer or money. Keep every cent you can away from the church. Poverty is a sure path to humility. Then don't forgive any one. Forgiving heals hurts. So don't be charitable.
If you read church literature, it may enthrall you, and you will want to do more for its great enterprise. Why should you read church literature?
It is not necessary for you to keep informed concerning the movements of its millions of members, thousands of pastors and hundreds of millions of dollars invested in church institutions. If you read church papers, you might get some idea of the magnitude of the church. Out of your ignorance you can throw a constant stream of cold water upon the fiery heart of the church. My friends, whether you help or hinder, the church of God is here to stay. It was imprisoned, burned at the stake, and persecuted unto strange cities long before you tried your little hand.
In one of your homes I saw a baby picture. At first it seemed that the tiny fellow was sitting all alone, but on closer view I saw a strong hand reaching from behind firmly grasping the child's dress.

Behind the dim unknown, Standeth God within the shadow, Keeping watch above his own.

The church was the first institution after the home. The school is a sprout. Law and government are the legitimate children. Israel forgot God and now he has no nation.

Nation after nation has tried to get along without God, and their record is written in one word—doomed.
O, Church of the Spirit, back to the old landmarks of faith, service, sympathy sanctity.

UNCLE DAVE.

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oil, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George H. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading down town druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and can now be had at almost any drug store. It is now sold here by
